

14TH ANNUAL RETINA SYMPOSIUM

IMPROVING CLINICAL OUTCOMES

INAUGURAL GUEST OF HONOR

Morton F. Goldberg, MD, FARVO, FACS, FAOS, FRACO (Hon.), MD (Hon., University of Coimbra)

Joseph E. Green Professor of Ophthalmology, The Wilmer Eye Institute, Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine, Director Emeritus, Wilmer Ophthalmological Institute, Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine, Former Professor and Head, Department of Ophthalmology, University of Illinois at Chicago (1970-1989)

Morton F. Goldberg, MD, is the Joseph E. Green Professor of Ophthalmology and Director Emeritus at the Wilmer Eye Institute at Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine. From 1989 to 2003, he served as the Director and William Holland Wilmer Professor of Ophthalmology at the Wilmer Eye Institute. Prior to that, he was Professor and Head of the Department of Ophthalmology at University of Illinois at Chicago (1970-1989).

Dr. Goldberg received his AB (Phi Beta Kappa, magna cum laude) from Harvard College and MD (Alpha Omega Alpha, cum laude) from Harvard Medical School. After interning at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital in Boston, he completed an ophthalmic residency and was chief resident at the Wilmer Eye Institute in Baltimore. He also served as chief resident at the Yale-New Haven Hospital. He completed a medical genetics fellowship with Professor Victor McKusick at Johns Hopkins Hospital.

Dr. Goldberg's areas of expertise include macular degeneration, diabetic retinopathy, sickle cell retinopathy and other vascular retinopathies, laser therapy, ocular trauma, and genetic ocular diseases. He has authored over 590 scientific publications. In 2009, he published his tenth book, The Retina in Systemic Disease: A Color Manual of Ophthalmoscopy.

He has served as President of the Chicago Ophthalmological Society, the Macula Society, the Association for Research in Vision and Ophthalmology (ARVO) and the Association of University Professors in Ophthalmology. Dr. Goldberg is the Co-Founder, Vice President, and trustee of the RYR-1 Foundation and Co-Chairman of RYR-1 Research Committee.

In 1999, Ophthalmology Times selected Dr. Goldberg as one of the "ten greatest living ophthalmologists." He has received the inaugural Ida Mann Medal; the Weisenfeld Prize; Inaugural ARVO Silver Fellow Award and ARVO Gold Fellow Award; Inaugural Arnall Patz Medal; Isaac Michaelson Prize of the Israel Academy of Sciences; David Paton Medal; Fight for Sight/Mildred Weisenfeld Lifetime Achievement Award; AOS Howe Medal; Henkind Award (Macula Society); Gertrude Pyron Award (ASRS); Inaugural Dr. Venkataswamy Endowment Oration Award; Foundation Fighting Blindness Inaugural Builders of Sight Clinical Research Award, and numerous other awards. He received the Honoris Causa degree from the University of Coimbra, Portugal. He has given the AAO Jackson Memorial Lecture, Jose Cunha-Vaz Lecture, Alex Krill Lecture, UIC's Kronfeld lecture, and almost 50 other named lectures.

He is an honorary Fellow of the Royal Australian College of Ophthalmologists, a member of the National Academy of Medicine (Institute of Medicine), of the National Academy of Sciences, an emeritus member of the Academia Ophthalmologica Internationalis and the former Editor-in-Chief of Archives of Ophthalmology (now JAMA Ophthalmology). Endowed professorships in his name have been established at the University of Illinois College of Medicine and the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine.